TEN CENTS A WEEK

HOW THE SOLDIER ENJOYS LIFE IN THE PHILIPPINES

Gainesville Boy Serving on Constabulary Writes Interestingly of Conditions and Customs There.

H. A. Fisher has received a letter from her son, Chas. M. Fisher, who received appointment to serve on the Philippine Constabulary, Philippine Islands, and who has been there nearly a year, which contains a description of life in that country. In the course of his letter, which is dated Camp Larena Iloilo, Sept. 11th, Mr. Fisher says:

"There is hardly any Sunday on these islands. There hasn't been any for me since I came to this island, Panay. As I perhaps wrote in my last letter (Aug. 31), my mother here never stopped for Sunday, now that I am out here in the mountains, away off from everybody everything, every day is Sunday for me. You see I am 'catching up.' Since you and Eva have been corresponding and exchanging my letters I don't know how to write to you from reading the same things, but I want to tell you about my trip from Jaro up here to this 'Camp Larena,' they call it.

Last Wednesday a week ago, Sept. 10th, your birthday, Capt. Hemmett decided to send me up here to command the mountain post. It is a new post they are building very far up the mountains to keep the wild tribes quiet. Before there have been a lot of robbers in these mountains and the Constabulary couldn't get them, but now with a post right up among the very heart of the mountains we can keep them quiet at last. This camp was begun last year and it will be two or three months yet before we can call it finished. At present the officer's quarters are a house built of poles, frame, and bark from hard-wood trees covered with grass, is occupied by the soldiers, while the officer (myself), lives in the kitchen, a little shack built of the same material, only it has for a floor poles laid close together and this same bark laid over them instead of boards. There is only one room and that is about as large as the kitchen part of our house at home, and in here I have a cot in one corner, a table with a little box on it for a desk in another corner, and a large box filled with clay for a place to build fires to cook on in another corner; a little rickety table to set out in the center to eat on and the provisions, such as we have up here, we set on the floor. There is one door so low I have to stoop to pass in and out, at the same time step up over the door sill about a foot high. The other building is not floored yet, nor weatherboarded, but it will be the same as the officer's quarters when completed, only much larger. Both buildings look more like make-shift barns than houses, and this little kitchen is not good enough for a wood shed. The wind blows hard up here all the time, and in puffs and gusts, and it rains half the time, and both wind and rain come right through this little 'office' of mine like you can imagine it would. But that is only the dark side of it. It was worse than this when they first began to work here, for then there wasn't a thing up here but rocks and woods and grass. They did have fair weather, though, in the early part of the year.

"Now, little as you think, I like it up here. It is cool all the time, even cold, cold like it was at Bagulo, exactly, and about as high above sea-level, 5,000 feet. There is no danger of bad water or cholera or yellow fever or anything like that up here. One doesn't have to be everlastingly changing sweaty clothes or starching and ironing. There is no wood bill to pay, no laundry to pay, no social features to attend, no political factions to worry about and no thieves to be running after and no work of any kind, in fact, except keep my men drilled and clothed and fed and improve the camp by doing some additional building, and keep two or three books written up.

"Then the scenery here is very beautiful—much more even than at Bagulo. Our camp is built right up on the top of a small but very high and steep hill, right in the inclosure of a horseshoe mountain range, and down at the foot of the hill, on the south side, is a small mountain lake about as large as our lot and Sim's and Bennett's all three together. The mountain is highest on the west and open on the east. We can see the sun rise through this gap, but it goes behind the mountain back of the camp on the west about three or four o'clock. This valley and mountain around the camp are covered with a thick forest of all kinds of hardwoods, vines and undergrowth found in the Philippines. There are no pines here like at Bagulo, but there are a few small fir trees, which resemble the pine.

"After another month or two the rain will stop and wind, too, and then it will be fine up here. They never let a company of soldiers stay here over two months because it is rather lonesome for them and then they want to let all of the companies have a turn at it. They have changed officers, too, with the companies, but Capt. Hemmett told me if I did to suit him and higher authorities didn't object he might let me stay here several months and just change the men every two months. I want to stay here, for I can live very cheap here, but down where I've been it seems like so much is required and they expect a fellow to spend every cent of his salary. * * * There was this and that and the other we just were required to get, and now I can't use them. I fear I'm not going to save as much as I had hoped to when I came over, but as I said, if they will keep me out here or some of the out-of-the-way places, which I think now is very likely, I will be more independent and able to save quite the largest half of my salary.

"The way up here, Mama, is a sight. There is no road—no more than a dim trail, and that only part of the way. There are good roads down in the low lands, of course, very good roads, but from the last station in the edge of the hills all the way up here we had to climb up very steep mountains and then down, and up and down, then wade rivers endways up and sometimes down over rocks and the water all the way from show-top to over waist-deep and running very swift. Some places we passed upstream where the banks were solid rock at least two hundred feet high and straight up—regular canons worn out through the mountains. We were from Saturday morning about 9 o'clock till Monday morning about 9 or 10 o'clock coming over about 15 or 20 miles, the distance from here back to the last station, and most of those two days were spent in wading up the river. Both nights we camped out in little shacks which we found up in the mountain. I would take off my wet clothes and put on dry ones, roll up in a big blanket and sleep sound as a log on the bamboo floor, while the natives I had with me, eight in all, sat around a little fire built on the clay hearth in the same room. Of these eight natives four of them were soldiers, three were cargadores, that is, men who carry loads on their backs or heads, and one boy, my muchacho, that is, a personal servant. I had not hired a muchacho yet, though all the officers have them, but now after leaving places where there were servants I just had to get one. I was lucky, too, for this is a good little fellow about 14 years old, can speak very good English, can cook and wash clothes, shine shoes, and

MITCHELL DEFENDS BOYCOTT BEFORE CONVENTION

Delivers Stirring Speech Before the Toronto Meeting, Giving His Idea of Liberty.

TORONTO, Ont., Nov. 18.—Endorsing a report of the committee on boycott, John Mitchell, one of the three officers of the American Federation of Labor who are under sentence for contempt of court, made a dramatic speech to the convention of that organization at yesterday's session. He declared that as far as he was concerned, regardless of consequences, he intended while at liberty to declare for the rights guaranteed him by the organic laws of his country.

The report which drew forth Mitchell's speech and which was adopted by the committee, among other things declared:

"We say that when your cause is just and every other remedy has been employed without result, boycott; we say that when the employer has determined to exploit not only adult male labor, but our women and children, and our reasoning and appeal to his fairness and his conscience will not sway him, boycott; we say that when labor has been oppressed, browbeaten and tyrannized, boycott; we say that when social and political conditions become so bad that ordinary remedial measures are fruitless, boycott, and finally we say, we have a right to boycott and we propose to air that right. In the application of this right of boycott to paraphrase the president (Gompers) we propose to strive on and on."

The convention broke into loud cheering for Mitchell as he concluded, and there was cries for "Morrison." The secretary did not respond. President Gompers was absent.

Mr. Mitchell said he realized that every statement made by those on the convention floor, and especially by those who on next Monday will have to deliver themselves to the courts, is being closely scrutinized.

Appeals to the People.

"I want the people of the United States to know my position," he said. "I shall not speak defiantly; but be the consequences what they will, I shall not surrender any right guaranteed to me by the constitution of our country. I am not sure how much mental and physical suffering will be necessary to make me submit, but if I know myself, not any amount of suffering will persuade me that I have not the right to spend my money where I please or that I have not the right to write and speak as I please, being responsible under the law for my acts."

"Whether the boycott be a benefit or a detriment each man must decide where he will bestow his patronage. I maintain that my patronage is my own and no merchant has a property right to it.

"I understand that cognizance is being taken at Washington of the utterances of men on the floor of this convention, and I want clearly to state my position. I propose in the future, as I have in the past, to exercise the rights secured to me by the father of my country; and I propose if I am sent to jail to declare again when I come out that I shall not for myself purchase any product of the Bucks' Stove and Range Company.

"I repeat that so far as I am concerned, and let the consequences be what they may, I intend while at liberty to declare for the rights guaranteed to me by the organic laws of my country. I am proud of being an American."

Mr. Mitchell said he had grown up as an American with a stepmother, so poor that she could not buy bread, and related how he had crept out of bed at night to get his father's soldier coat to keep warm.

Declares for Real Liberty.

"But I want to see the word American stand for all the sentiment that is symbolized by the flag of our country," he continued. "I want real liberty. I don't believe in the liberty enunciated by some of our courts that men and women should have the right to work themselves to death. I don't believe in the liberty enunciated by Judge Tuthill of Chicago, who declared unconstitutional the ten-hour law for women, and by that act compelled them to work fourteen hours a day."

Mr. Mitchell said he believed the present proceedings would bring home to the people the necessity of working in concert. "Is the time going to come on our continent when the badge of faithfulness to labor must be the brand of imprisonment?" He said in conclusion, "surely I hope not. I hope that the Government may be so conducted that no citizen may feel that he has not been given justice and an equal right with every other citizen."

The revocation of the charter of the Ohio State Federation by the executive council for admitting to its membership seceding locals of the Electrical Workers was approved. The convention then adopted the report of its committee on laws that the appeal of the Ohio body be dismissed. The executive council was directed to attempt to unify the trade unions of Ohio in the State federation.

The plan adopted of settling the disagreement among the Electrical Workers was recommended to the convention by its committee on laws. It called for the appointment of three trade unionists to call the proposed convention of the Electrical Workers.

Fire's Attack Upon Man Caused $50,000 Fire Loss

AMERICUS Ga., Nov. 18.—A loss of $50,000 resulted from a fire here last night caused by an unknown person attacking Night Watchman Lee Michael of the Americus Construction Company and knocking the lantern over with a club.

The lantern and the extensive lumber yards and variety works of the company were destroyed. At a time the fire threatened destruction of a considerable portion of the city. Before being checked the flames had covered an area of 50 acres. Among the other buildings burned were an unused cold storage plant owned by S. R. Sims and valued at $3,000 and six small dwellings with contents.

The Americus Construction Company carried but $2,000 insurance and $1,500 will cover the insurance on the other property destroyed.

Drawing of the Color Line Is Upheld By Iowa Court

DES MOINES, Iowa, Nov. 18.—The Iowa Supreme Court yesterday held that a private concern, under Iowa statute, can legally refuse to serve a negro. Susie Brown, a negro, sued the J. H. Bell Coffee Company for $1,000 damages because she was refused a cup of coffee at a pure food show in Des Moines a year ago. In the lower court the woman won, but the Supreme Court declared that the Bell company, being a private concern, had a right to refuse to serve anyone it wished, even though the person had paid an admission fee at the door.

Chief Justice Evans and Justice Weaver filed vigorous dissenting opinions.

DR. CLINE HAS BEEN IN MORE TROUBLE

HIS LATEST ARREST OCCURRED IN NEWPORT NEWS, VA.

Was Charged With Attempting to Defraud Merchants, But Was Acquitted.

Trouble continues to follow in the path of Dr. A. E. Cline, the veterinary surgeon who spent a portion of last winter in Gainesville, as the following from The Newport News (Va.) Times-Herald of November 15th will show:

"Dr. A. E. Cline, a veterinarian, acquitted in police court last week of a charge of attempting to defraud several local merchants by giving them 'no fund' checks, has prepared the following statement:

"I have been charged in the papers with forgery, which was a mistake by the newspapers, for it was not forgery, but protested checks which came back here marked 'not sufficient funds,' and what caused that was the fact that I gave a check of $45 which I did not put on record, and another of $55. Instead of being notified about the checks they were hasty and got out a warrant charging me with false pretense, so I settled this affair up so I will not have to wait for court. I have been misrepresented and mistreated by my enemies for the last two years. My troubles first started in Georgia, and they caused me quite a lot of trouble, but I proved to be a good and straight man, but my enemies wouldn't let me rest, so I opened up in Wadesboro, N. C., and that's where I received notice of divorce from my first wife, Susie Davis, on January 3rd. My first wife and I were separated eight years. I married her in 1899, when I was 19 years old. We were divorced in January this year and I married my second wife the 22nd day of February, 1909.

"Now, there was inquiry about my wife in Statesboro, Ga., and my wife saw in the papers and she wrote me a letter and has written me several letters since, but I am going to publish the first letter she wrote me after my divorce:

"Groveand, Ga., January 9, 1909.—Dr. Cline—Dear Eddie: I saw in paper where you was going to be married Thursday the next, and also the lady you are to be married to wired to Statesboro and wanted to know if you had a living wife. So I am living but not your wife. I am sorry of this all, for I love you more than life, but you was not happy with me and you prove it to me. So I wish you a long and happy life and may God bless you. And I hope you all will have children. O if my darling little baby could have lived, so happy I could have been now. But my days are not many more I hope. I had a letter from a lawyer in Wadesboro, N. C., asking if I had my divorce and where and what State I entered suit, but I don't have to tell him anything. You are free to marry and be happy.

"I am only here on a short visit. I would go to see you if I had enough money, but hate to ask you for any. I am not well at all, but am able to go. Will close. Would you write and ask me to the wedding? Remember first love. Yours very truly,

"SUSIE DAVIS."

"I believe my first wife would do more for me today than the second one would, for my second wife I married a poor girl, made a lady of her, and when I got in trouble she deserted me. I will write my story in The Saturday Evening Post and tell my friends how there has been slander and blackmail against me. I will write why I left Gainesville, Florida."

Conductor F. R. LeBarron of the Atlantic Coast Line is again on his regular run between Jacksonville and St. Petersburg, and his numerous friends, which includes the entire traveling public who have occasion to come this way, are glad to welcome him back on the "old job."

Captain LeBarron has returned from a well-earned vacation, during which time he made an extended tour of the West, including in his itinerary a visit to his dear mother in El Paso, Texas. His mother was a resident of Pensacola for many years, but six years ago went to El Paso on account of her health. She has been improving in her new home, which will be gratifying to Captain LeBarron's numerous friends along the route.

BIG MORTGAGES ARE NOW BEING RECORDED

INSTRUMENTS INVOLVING $150-
000,000 FOR SEABOARD.

Mortgages Intended to Pay Off Indebtedness and Make Proposed Extensions of Line.

Two of the largest mortgages ever recorded in the records of Alachua county are now being filed in the office of Clerk of the Circuit Court S. H. Wienges.

These mortgages are from the Seaboard Air Line Railroad Company to the New York Trust Company and Mortimer N. Buckner, $125,000,000, and the Seaboard Air Line Railroad Company to the Fidelity Trust Company of Baltimore and Lear Black, $25,000,000, making an aggregate of one hundred and fifty million dollars.

The first mortgage, which is a refund instrument calling for $125,000,000, is 141 pages of printed copy, each page equaling a page of typewriter, while the second instrument, an adjustment mortgage, contains 121 pages of the same class matter.

These mortgages, a copy of which it is required must be filed in every county which the branches effected penetrate, must be recorded one hundred times, which involves a great deal of work upon the part of the various county officials.

Miss Estelle Beal, the efficient typewriter in the office of Clerk Wienges, has been working faithfully upon this work for several days, and she is naturally weary. While she likes to see the office prosper, nevertheless she declares that she is glad such documents do not come in every day.

The amounts realized from these mortgages are intended to go for the purpose of paying certain indebtedness, improving roadway, and making extensions in various sections.

WILL GO ON HUNT.

Rev. W. J. Carpenter and Party of Friends Will Try Luck in Woods.

Notwithstanding that Rev. W. J. Carpenter, for four years the beloved pastor of the First Methodist church in this city, has been away for several years, Dr. Carpenter still remembers the hospitality extended by the people of this city and county, and cherishes this remembrance with a great deal of gratitude.

A day or two ago Captain J. Maxey Dell, who is recognized as one of the most enthusiastic sportsmen of this section, received a letter from Dr. Carpenter, in which he says in substance that he and a party of friends from Tampa are going on a big hunt as guests of Thomas Chaires at Old Town, and expressed a desire that Captain Dell be with them, explaining, of course, that he "had authority for the invitation."

Captain Dell appreciates very much this invitation, but regrets that business engagements will prevent him from going at this time. He feels sure that the hospitality of the Chaires home will make all who go on that hunt have a good time.

UNIVERSITY BOYS
TO MEET OLYMPICSGAME PROMISED AT LOCAL BALL PARK SATURDAY.Teams in Good Condition, and Winners of the Game Are Assured of Interesting Contest.

The football team, which has already been tried, and not found wanting, is the strongest team in all the State in all points of the game. It is but a matter of a short time that it will reach the "goal of championship," sought by the other state competitors. The team, through the able efforts of its coach, has been put in first-class playing condition, and their next game, which will be played in this city with the Olympics of Jacksonville, will be a treat to the sportsman.

The Olympics have been strengthened by the addition of several of the former players, such as Sararen, whose spectacular playing is familiar to nearly everyone.

The game will be called at 3 p. m. Saturday at the ball park, and will be refereed by Coles of Jacksonville, who is very "strict" in the minutest details. Mr. S. Coles was captain of the team last year.

The line-up for the University will be selected from the following players: Ends, McCormick, Johnston, and Pile; tackles, Rader, Cox, and McGuire; guards, Cox, Miller, Baker; quarter, Edins, Pile, and Tenny; half-back, E. Taylor, and Tenny; full-back, E. Taylor, and Tenny.

The University team has been strengthened by McGuire and Bartleson. These two additions will be a source of strength as they are both players. Bartleson played quarter on the team last year, and McGuire was a star in the East Florida primary team.

RECEPTION TO SISTER CARLOTTA

By J. J. Finley Chapter, U. D. C., and Mildred Lee Chapter.

An agreeable entertainment was given Wednesday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. W. B. Taylor, in honor of the visit of the State President of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, Sister Esther Carlotta, to the J. J. Finley Chapter.

In the receiving line were Mrs. W. B. Taylor, Mrs. J. L. Kelley, Sister Esther Carlotta, Mrs. H. H. McCreary, Mrs. J. M. Taylor and Mrs. J. W. Tench.

Owing to limited time no special program had been prepared for the occasion. After opening with prayer from the ritual of the United Daughters of the Confederacy and singing of the State song, "Way Down Upon the Suwannee River," the president addressed the ladies present upon certain memorials in which the Daughters are interested. She brought before them in a clear and forceful manner the needs of these memorials, and especially urged a more systematic contribution from the chapters to the Old Soldiers' Home in Jacksonville. Sister Esther Carlotta told the chapter how highly one of its members had been honored at the recent general convention of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, in Houston, Texas, in having elected Mrs. J. W. Tench an honorary president for life.

Refreshments of sandwiches and coffee were served by the hostess, after which the chapter adjourned to accept an invitation to a similar entertainment by the Mildred Lee Chapter, Children of the Confederacy, at the residence of Mrs. J. D. Stringfellow. The bright, happy children in their dresses of white, with red and white badges, made a truly lovely picture. The president addressed them along somewhat the same lines as to the mother chapter. The enthusiasm of the children was shown by presenting Sister Esther Carlotta with a souvenir of the occasion, a handsome gold thimble.

Delicious refreshments were served, and the little children departed to their several homes, after many expressions of delight.

THE METHODIST REVIVAL.

Rev. Christian Delivered Great Sermons at Services Yesterday.

The evangelistic services under the leadership of Dr. Christian and Prof. Milam continue to increase in interest.

Yesterday morning Dr. Christian delivered an able sermon on the subject, "The Midnight Need," and the impression was profound.

Last night the services were unusually interesting. After a half-hour song service led by Prof. Milam and the large chorus choir, Dr. Christian delivered a great sermon. Subject, "A Little Religion is a Dangerous Thing." So deep was the impression as to be almost painful in its manifestation. In the light of this great sermon it would seem that nine-tenths of the church members in Gainesville are in great danger.

This morning the preacher's theme will be "The Importance of Prayer," and all who are interested in the subject of prayer are urged to be present at this service.

These great evangelists have been wonderfully blessed in their labor in other places, having led thousands into the experience of a better life, and the same gracious results will follow their labor if the people will give them a chance.

Everybody is cordially invited to be present at all the services.

The morning service begins at 9:30 and closes at 10:30.

The evening service begins at 7, with thirty minutes' song service.

Cottolene Is Not a Substitute for Anything

No animal product, such as hog lard, ever has afforded, or ever can afford a satisfaction to compare with Cottolene. It is far superior to lard because it contains no hog fat, and its purity is unquestioned. It is more economical than butter for shortening and frying because, being richer, one-third less is required.

Cottolene is made from cottonseed oil, a fluid extracted from the seed of purest cotton. From Cottonfield to Kitchen—human hands never touch the oil from which Cottolene is made.

Pies, doughnuts and cakes cooked with Cottolene can be fearlessly enjoyed by the most determined dyspeptic, for Cottolene makes food digestible as well as palatable.

There is no substitute for Cottolene, because there is no shortening as good as Cottolene. It is pure, clean, neutral in taste and flavor, and absolutely the purest and most healthful frying and shortening medium.

AT THE NEW BAIRD.

"The Servant in the House" Drew a Large and Pleased Audience.

The first really high-class show of the season filled the boards at the New Baird last night, when that stirring play, "The Servant in the House," held the boards.

This play, which is one of the finest in the country, was well-played and well-staged, and those who attended have no regret to make, as they feel that they secured a full evening's pleasure. It is one of the few plays on the road with a lack of sickening melodrama, but is a clean, straight, refined play throughout, and a production that received approval of the most refined people of Gainesville.

Manager McCollum is to be congratulated for having secured such a play.

An Approaching Marriage.

Cards are out announcing the approaching marriage of D. Meredith Clarke of this city and Miss Ida Flinn, a charming young lady of Cordele, Ga., which event will occur at the home of the bride's parents in Cordele, on the 24th inst., which will be next Wednesday.

The groom is well known and popular in this city and section, having been for some time a resident here. He is traveling representative of the Rountree Trunk and Bag Company, and has a number of friends throughout his territory who will extend congratulations in advance.

The young lady who is soon to become Mrs. Clarke is one of Cordele's social favorites, coming from one of the finest families of old Georgia.

Dr. Devere B. Morris of this city will act as attendant to the groom.

Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Clarke will leave for Gainesville, and are expected to reach here on the evening of Thursday, the 25th inst. They will make their future home in Cordele, only coming here for a visit to the groom's relatives.

Summoned to Georgia.

Dr. J. F. McKinstry, Jr., received a telegram at a late hour Wednesday night summoning him to Quitman, Ga., on professional business, and left in the early morning train yesterday. This is quite a compliment, not only to Dr. McKinstry personally, but to Gainesville. Dr. McKinstry was recently called to Perry, West Florida, on a similar mission, when it became necessary for him to take an automobile to Newberry and catch the train in order to make quick connection.

CRUELTY TO SNAKES.

Very few of the people who are the proud possessors of belts, pocket-books, card-cases, and numerous other articles of snakeskin, realize the agony that the demand of civilization for fads has meant to the original owners of the material from which these articles are made, says a contributor to Popular Mechanics.

It is difficult to skin a dead snake, and the skin is often spoiled in the course of the operation, while, on the other hand, it is a simple matter to skin a live snake, and the skin thus gained is worth much more. Dead snakes bring from two to five cents, according to their size, and live ones from twenty-five cents to one dollar.

One of the largest snakeskin companies has factories in Sumatra. When a snake is received from a hunter it is seized adroitly by an operator, one hand squeezing the neck and the other holding the tail. It is then attached by the neck to the trunk of a palm tree, an assistant holding it by the tail. With the point of a knife the operator cuts the skin just below the head, and pulling with all his strength peels it from the writhing reptile in the same way that a woman pulls a pair of gloves from her hand. While this is taking place the assistant holds the body as rigid as possible. The skinned snake writhes in agony for nearly an hour before it expires.

Beware of the people who are always paying compliments. Ten to one they seldom pay anything else.

And now the Chilean Government, with an appropriation of $14,000,000 for battleships, has joined the peace-makers.

It is said that a man who recently offered to give $1,000,000 to charity only returned $450,000 for taxation, and this in New England, too.

Dispatches are to the effect that cotton mills at Huntsville, Ala., which have curtailed production for several months, are resuming at full time.

The Fort Meade Observer will make its appearance some time this week in sixteen-page form. This will be its first appearance since the disastrous fire.

If a large part of the charges made by newspapers in connection with the sugar frauds is true, it becomes evident that Mr. Roosevelt could have had some excellent gunning for his game without leaving these shores.

A campaign is to be started by the George Washington Memorial Association to raise $2,500,000 for the erection of the proposed George Washington Memorial Building in Washington as a headquarters for the scientific, educational, patriotic and art organizations of the country.

An instrument, by the use of which four messages can be sent simultaneously over a single cable, has been invented and patented by Stephen D. Field, a nephew of Cyrus W. Field, who laid the first Atlantic cable. The device is now being used on the cable between Key West and Havana, and is said to work very successfully.

OUR ATTITUDE IN THE EAST.

The unfortunate complication in regard to representation of the United States at the Chinese Court has had, at least, the advantage of drawing public attention in a pointed way to the importance of American interests in the Orient. It was evident, even before the selection and resignation of Mr. Crane as Minister to China, that both President Taft and Secretary Knox were keenly interested in the subject. Mr. Taft, more perhaps than any President we have had, has been intrusted with duties abroad to a sufficient extent to bring home to him keenly the fact that there are other powers in this world struggling just as keenly as the United States, and with almost, if not quite, the same energy and intelligence, for the control of foreign markets.

Secretary Hay's policy announced nine years ago, for keeping the door of China open to international trade, was a master stroke. It not only protected the interests of the United States in the Orient, but it made a friend of China by putting the United States in the position of a protector of Chinese soil and Chinese markets from foreign aggression from many sources, says The Wall Street Journal. The policy of the open door is capable of extension at the present time by the rendering of genuine services to China in the process of the reorganization of her political and economic system. China is undoubtedly on the eve of great reforms. In spite of the jealousy which prevails there against foreigners, it is probable that she will be compelled to avail herself of the assistance of individual foreign experts when she finally determines to put her economic system upon a modern basis.

Extension of the railway network is almost inevitably the first step in opening up a country to civilization. It has made possible our own great development in the Far West; it has made Mexico what she is today; it has transformed Siberia from a mythical land of desert and barbarism into a community of prosperous manufacturing cities. With the extension of railway network, in order to afford an opportunity to bring goods to market, must go almost necessarily the creation of a uniform currency system. The railways cannot be operated to advantage under the necessity for keeping a money-changer at each station, or with forms of currency paid at one point which cannot be employed without depreciation at another.

With the extension of railways and the creation of a sound currency system will come also reorganization of the public finances upon a basis which will enable some future Chinese Hamilton to strike the rock of Chinese credit and bring forth abundant resources. In all these matters, if the United States can command the confidence of the Chinese government and people, great opportunities will open for the development of American trade and the employment of American resources, without doing injustice to China or arousing any suspicion that our efforts are directed against her national independence.

Very recently a wealthy man died in New York and bequeathed $25,000,000 to numerous religious and benevolent causes. That amount, stupendous as it was, was not the whole of his benefactions, for throughout his life he gave large sums for similar purposes. A few weeks before another wealthy man died, also in New York, and left a fortune of over $20,000,000, but he left not one cent for philanthropy. What a difference between the two men. One recognized his obligations to the world and the value of religion and benevolence in the formation of character and the uplifting of humanity. The other man seemed to have no such consciousness, and therefore built up his mighty fortune for himself and family alone. The two facts in all their details convey their own lesson.

WHY THE YOUNG FOLKS LEAVE THE FARM.

In these days we are beginning to hear much of the necessity for our girls studying home economics and learning the scientific facts underlying home-making, in order that they may be able to build and keep better homes at less cost of money and effort. Many conditions have conspired to make housework distasteful to Southern women and consequently in the homes as out on the farm we have a general tendency to the extremes of drudgery and idleness. On many farms the life of the mother is one of almost perpetual drudgery, without knowledge or mechanical or other devices to lighten her burdens. She is without the knowledge of the things which would enable her to do her life work with the least labor necessary to obtain efficiency. Is it any wonder that our girls prefer to study music or elocution, or work in the business office or the store, when they know the life of drudgery which their mothers spend and have never been shown either by example or precept the possibilities of making home-building and household work a pleasant employment for both mind and body?

The mother who makes a slave of herself in her work is not a fit example, a pleasant companion, or an inspiration to her children.—Raleigh (N. C.) Progressive Farmer.

CURRENT COMMENT.

Chicago Record-Herald: "We sincerely hope that the leaders at Cairo may be punished. The duty of the State, its courts and its people is clear, and the good name of the State is intimately concerned. But even while that duty is being performed let us see if we cannot do something to banish the distrust of the law that makes the public sentiment that is so helpful to lynchers by legal reforms that will assure us a swift administration of justice. This is by far the most prominent and practical way of getting rid of lynch law and lynching in all parts of the United States."

Philadelphia Record: "The boll weevil that preys with such destructive voracity upon the cotton crop in the South is not altogether anathema. Because he eats up cotton he has turned the eyes of the planters toward corn. According to the report of the Bureau of Statistics the corn crop in the State of Louisiana this year is 51,198,000 bushels. There was an average yield of 23 bushels to the acre. This is a bigger crop than the farmers in Pennsylvania gathered. The New Orleans Times-Democrat argues from this showing that with diversified farming, and particularly with greater attention to the production of food crops, the Louisiana farmer will find himself, year by year, more independent and more prosperous than was his average condition under the 'all-cotton' regime."

Grows Hair on Bald Heads

A Remedy That Costs Nothing if it Fails to Do as Claimed.

Resorcin is one of the latest and most effective germ-killers discovered by science, and in connection with Beta Naphthol, also a powerful antiseptic, a combination is formed which destroys the germs which rob the hair of its nutriment, and thus create a clean and healthy condition of the scalp, which prevents the development of new germs.

Pilocarpine is a well-known agent for restoring the hair to its natural color, where the loss of color has been due to a disease. Yet it is not a coloring matter or dye.

The famous Rexall "93" Hair Tonic is chiefly composed of Resorcin, Beta Naphthol and Pilocarpine, combined with pure alcohol because of its cleansing and antiseptic qualities. It makes the scalp healthy, nourishes the hair, revitalizes the roots, supplies hair nourishment and stimulates a new growth.

We want you to try a few bottles of Rexall "93" Hair Tonic on our personal guarantee that the trial will not cost you a penny if it does not give you absolute satisfaction. That's proof of our faith in this remedy and it should indisputably demonstrate that we know what we are talking about when we say that Rexall "93" Hair Tonic will grow hair on bald heads, except of course where baldness has been of such long duration that the roots of the hair are entirely dead, the follicles closed and grown over, and the scalp is glazed.

Remember, we are basing our statements upon what has already been accomplished by the use of Rexall "93" Hair Tonic, and we have the right to assume that what it has done for hundreds of others it will do for you. In any event you cannot lose anything by giving it a trial on our liberal guarantee. Two sizes, 50 cents and $1.00. Remember, you can obtain Rexall Remedies in Gainesville only at our store—The Rexall Store. J. W. McCollum & Co., corner East Main and Union streets.

keep house real well. He knows some Spanish and speaks naturally the native dialect, Visayan. So he does my interpreting besides all my work about the house. He has been two years to English school in Iloilo and can sing several American songs. He is quick as a cat and right good looking. He was on his way back to school when I saw him on the road and he wanted to come with us, so after telling him he had better go on to school and discouraging him as much as possible from coming, I decided if he was so anxious I'd take him. I don't know how much I shall pay him. They generally pay the muchachos about ten pesos ($5) a month, but that is when they have their washing done at a laundry and have a cook besides. If I were in town where it was very warm and social life to keep up I would have to have my clothes done up properly, but up here I only wear a flannel shirt and trousers, shoes which I don't care if they are muddy, and a hat. All my good clothes are in my trunk down in Jaro and will stay there till I leave this camp.

"I am studying Visayan now and my boy is my teacher. He knows all about grammar, too, so it is a pleasure to talk to him. He can understand me. I'm going to keep him if I have to pay him 20 pesos a month, that is, if he behaves well and does my work properly and don't get lazy. His home is a little country village and the other officers who know his mother and sisters and brothers say they are real nice people for Filipinos. As soon as I can learn Visaya well enough to pass the examination I will get 100 pesos a year extra pay, but it is very hard to learn and most officers do not learn it in three or four years. If I can keep studying it (and up here I have plenty of time and nobody but Visayan people to talk to) I believe I can learn it enough to pass examination in a year or little more. I have a book of it now and during the past week have learned several words. We boys don't get extra pay for learning Spanish, but we have to study it, too, so as to be able to talk to the educated Filipinos and Spanish element, for these form the social class and generally the officeholders in the local government. I and my boy are the only two who speak English up here. All my soldiers are Visayan and some of them know some Spanish. But we get along real well. I'm not in the least afraid—no more than if I were in the woods in Florida. In fact, there are not as many murders or crimes of any kind committed over here, except caraboo stealing, as there is right in the United States. There is never any trouble now to amount to anything. The Constabulary has worked up a good name for itself in the past two or three years—much better than it had formerly—and the people everywhere respect it very much. The trouble in Davao Mindanao in July was only local and I don't fear any more like it, for a good example was made of them.

"Well this is Sunday morning. Last night the wind did not blow so bad and this morning is a nice day. I have just come back from the lake, where I had a bath. I wish I could go to church this morning, but there is none near here. O, yes, while I was on my way from Jaro I saw in the town of Jaulinay a little nipa house on the hillside and painted up the gable facing the road was this: 'Baptist Church, God Is Love,' in large letters. Then right across the road, and around the next corner was a very large stone church with a high round dome on the tower surmounted by a cross. Since the Filipinos like to do everything for show I wonder how many leave the big church to attend the little one. There are two families of Baptist missionaries in Jaro and they come all up through the country to these little towns. I do not know how strong these little established churches are. I am going to go sometime when I get a chance. * * *

PROMINENT NEGROES ARE MEETING HERE

MEN AND WOMEN FROM ALL SECTIONS OF COUNTRY PRESENT.

The Eighteenth Annual Session of the Seven Stars of Consolidation in Session in This City.

The eighteenth annual session of the Seven Stars of Consolidation, in and for the United States of America, an organization for colored people, a benevolent society which admits none but the best moral and religious people of their race to membership, is now in session in Rising Sun Hall. Rev. H. M. Fleming, D. D., of this city is the head of this organization. Fully three hundred delegates are members of this national organization, representing several hundred lodges and chambers located in many of the States in the Union. Many of the leading thinkers of the negro race are members of this convention.

Lawyers, doctors and ministers of high standing are among its members. The membership is nearing 30,000, representing fully five hundred thousand dollars in property and real estate.

This order conducts a strong endowment department for the relief of the members. Dr. Fleming, who is a resident in this county, can be classed as one of the truly great leaders of the negro race. He and his numerous followers have realized that the great problem that confronts the white man in the South must be solved, not by sudden and unthoughtless endeavors upon the part of the race, but by gradual growth in moral wealth and fitness to live with or among a strong, powerful race.

So great was the work of the grand lodge officers for the past twelve months, that they were all elected for another term without opposition.

The increase in finance and membership this year has been phenomenal.

The colored people of this community can congratulate themselves upon having in their midst a man like Mr. Fleming, who is doing so much to lift up the race.

The Rev. H. J. Jones is the grand financial secretary, Dr. W. C. Brown recording secretary, Rev. John Bull national deputy, Prof. D. J. Jones secretary endowment, Rev. J. P. Perkins, treasurer, Rev. G. B. Wilson, B. D., is the head of the journalistic department.

ABSTRACT

Is something a real estate investor will never do without—it's his sole protection against a faulty title. Why not have us draw you up an abstract of your prospective investment so that you'll not be buying something "in the dark"? The cost is certainly nominal—and when compared with the amount involved looks ridiculous indeed to do without it.

With a desire to be up to the times, and in order to accommodate his increased business, Royal Cook, the merchant at the corner of West Main and Union streets, has leased another store, and carpenters have been busy for the past three or four days knocking out the partitions and rearranging the place. The average small boy is delighted with the numerous luminous posters of the approaching circus, and crowds of them may be seen congregating around the boards and pointing out the object of greatest interest to each individual. The circus at least pleases the younger element, and parents will naturally take the children "to see the animals." As a matter of course, they manifest no interest in the ring performance.

Among those who have been in the city for the past day or two is J. E. Bishop. Mr. Bishop was for years a resident of Alachua county, part of this time in Gainesville, but is now connected with the Prairie Pebble Phosphate Company of Mulberry, where he holds a lucrative position. He called at this office and had his name enrolled upon the subscription list of The Sun, as he declared he wanted to keep posted on the affairs of this county, and the best way to "get at it" was through this paper.
